"GROUCHO" THE MOVIE PROJECTOR

(Circa 1930)

The 8 foot high projector was used for over 50 years at the Minor Theater in Arcata, California.

WOMAN COOKING ACORN SOUP

The woman is cooking acorn meal in a water tight basket by adding water and hot river stones. The acorn soup is stirred with a wooden paddle to prevent the stones from burning the basket.

JUMP DANCE BASKET

This special basket was used only in the Jump Dance ceremony.

GIRL WITH BURDEN BASKET

Burden baskets were used to gather and carry heavy loads.

TOLOWA GIRL

The girl is dressed in ceremonial dance regalia. The dress is made of deerskin with different ornaments, such as shells and seeds.

HUPA BOY

The boy is dressed in Jump Dance ceremonial regalia. The very colorful headdress is made from red Woodpecker scalps, feathers, and white deerskin.

TRADITIONAL DWELLING

The Indian house was made from split redwood or red cedar planks. The house had two levels. A living/cooking area was dug out 2 to 5 feet deep and ledge surrounding the dug out area was used for storage and sleeping.

ZOOMORPHS

Zoomorphs are animal shaped dark grey stone objects. Their original use is a mystery.

REDWOOD CANOE AND SURF FISH NET

1. The net was used to catch fish from the ocean shoreline. The net was held into the waves as they broke upon the shore.
2. The canoe is made from a single piece of redwood, split with an elk horn wedge and carved with a stone tool called an "adze".
